Dear Senator Graham,

As I have written you approximately once per week since the beginning of this year (with only a single misguided response), I can only assume that your failure to address the issue of judicial corruption and reform of the justice system is via intent or neglect (i.e. incompetence); the hollow support for a 18 month "National Criminal Justice Commission" strikes of political elites to link the support for an 18 month "National Criminal Justice Commission" stinks or political ploys to kick the can down the road (and avoid possible consequences during the upcoming presidential election cycle); since you were on the Committee on the Judiciary in the House from 1997-2002 and you currently serve on the Senate's Committee on the Judiciary (including your role as Chairman of the Subcommittee on Crime and Terrorism), the implication that you require a Commission to understand and enact reforms reeks of incompetent and/or political diversion.

To be clear, there is a widespread corruption of unchecked power (rather than corruption for financial gain) within the state and federal judiciary with trickle down effects on the entire justice system; the primary problem is not police abuses or racism; the problem is injustice promoted and expanded under color of law.

Again, I remind you that a Senator is responsible for legislation with a fundamental duty to protect the interests of his constituents and to maintain a check on abuses of the other branches of government.

As you are on the Judicial Committee and you are from my home state, you are the elected authority with direct responsibility for my issues and your letter dated (2-9-15) was simply a denial of reality by you or your office. Because your duty is difficult does not mean that it does not exist...

Again, I ask you to pursue accountability within the Justice System (for judges, prosecutors, police, et cetera). This extends to the entire justice system not just the Criminal Justice system. Civil courts and enforcement needs reform at least as urgently as the Criminal system.

As I have previously mentioned, I have spent over two and a half years giving courts an ability to correct their own errors and the abuses of lower court judges to no avail (with approximately 100-300 accumulated violations of my rights directly related to three members of the judiciary and substantially more violations likely provable with adequate investigations of additional members of the judiciary).

The courts have made it clear, on the record, that they have no regard for the U.S. Constitution when it impacts their assumed privileges in the slightest. At a certain point failure to uphold the law and rights guaranteed by the Constitution crosses into criminal territory via intent and/or neglect; in my case the pattern of violations is obvious and consistent.

In an ideal world, the judiciary would actively monitor and correct itself. In a more practical world, judicial accountability only exists via criminal enforcement (of judicial abuses). Our current system contains effectively zero self-enforcement by the judiciary (and its self-monitored commissions) and effectively zero enforcement of criminal violations by members of the judiciary and the broader justice system (as the justice system contains incestuous relationships between judges, prosecutors, and police which discourage accountability at any level).

Currently, even though the laws exist to contain judicial abuses, no real process for judicial accountability exists without public and/or political pressure; meaning the ball is in your court.

Again, I ask for your aid in getting legislative reform of the judiciary and in obtaining a special prosecutor specific to my matter.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Joey Berry
